The night was cool, the road was in good condition and the members in good spirits, so that no end of sport was enjoyed. Nearly every one was armed with a "aquaker," a new call or alarm, with which they roused the continy as they skimmed along. These "aquakers" are made of wood in which there are three reeds, and they give out an enlarged police, whistle roar. Next week it is proposed to have a big moonlight "run" out to Roney's Point and return. The number of wheelmen here is increasing weekly and the entatusiasm keeps up at fever heat.

BRINGING IN A WELL

Finished in the Hickory Field Yesterday b the Wheeling Company-An Interesting Process - A Visit to "Flinn City," sion to Nisgara Falls and Toronto, on Tuesday, August 17.

The Chief of Police Saturday received a metsage from Wellaburg asking that he keep a lookout for four boys in a cance who were expected to arrive here about Saturday evening and tell them to wait for a message. Four strange young fellows put in an appearance, but they announced that they were from Wheeling, and so were not halted.—Parkeraburg Sate Journal, Monday.

A Lange number of seats have already been sold for the lecture to be delivered at the Opera House, Friday evening, by flon. Daniel B. Lucas, and it is simost certain that this popular orator will be received by a large and enthusiastic house. The lecture is to be given, as has already been announced, for the benefit of the fund being reised by the Parnell Club of this city, for the cause of Home Rule. The life and character of Daniel O'Connell, the great Irish commoner, will be the subject that the gifted gentleman from the Eastern Pan-Handle will handle. Seats can be reserved at Baumer's to-morrow.

ABOUT PEOPLE, The Wheeling Natural Gas Company brought in another heavy gasser-one o he finest-yesterday afternoon on the Harbison farm. This is the well known Harbison farm. This is the well known as the Harbison 2. An Intelligence was a case of the drilling process. When he arrived at the well the drill was just about to be set going on the crust or "cap" of the gas sand. Before the tools were let down the well was measured. This is done by means of a steel measure weighted to the end, which is let down the state the end, which is let down the gast to under the gast to the harbison 1, several hundred leeper than the Harbison 1, several hundred leeper than showing that the well was just 45 feet deeper than the Harbison I, several hundred yards distant.

The measuring process finished, the tools were swung and started down the deep hole at a lively clip. Prior to this, a close fitting top pieco had been screwed on the outer large casing and the smaller inner caing. The fact that the hole was absolutely free from water was shown by allowing a tester to hang in it all night. This is arranged to fit the hole so dightly that if even a teaspoonful of water had been in the hole it would have caught it. rangers in the City and Wheeling Folks Mrs. Eilen Moran left on a visit to Chi-Mr. H. THE GAS INCREASING.

A little gas was escaping from the well before the work of drilling in was begun. The drill pounded away on the hard crust, producing apparently little impression. Gradually, however, the cloud of line dust blown from the hole grew denser, and water thrown down to wet the cable was sent up in a fine mist, which went half way up the derrick. The reporter thought there was already something of a gasser, but the officers of the company and the drillers paid no attention, but kept pounding away. In an hour the gas was hissing from the hole; in two hours the rise and fall of the tools was accompanied by a nard, coughing sound, like a large towboat pulling with a heavy tow. When the drill was drawn out to screw on another bit the sound became a roar, like nothing but the continuous and indescribable rush of the waters at Nisgara. Still Mr. John H. Myers and family, of West Liberty, were in the city yesterday. Mr. Harry Smyth has been spending a lew days with friends in Washington, Pa. Mr. J. R. After some further drilling white pebbles and dark fragments of stone rauging from the size of a pea up to a quarter-ounce piece, began to fly from the hole and fall in a shower on the derrick floor. The roar increased. The drillers now employed a long stick to turn the drill back will coth, instead of the short handle. Thomas D. The string was then drawn out of the hole and preparations begun to "chain the lion down." This is itself an interesting process. It is impossible to give any idea of the strength of the well, further than to say that it is as good as any of them in the field. The company's process of shutting in the gas is interesting. It was proposed to take some action in regard to the improvements that are being made to the Centre Market. When these improvements are completed, that market house will be a fine one, and will reflect credit on the city. In addition to the protecting sheds that have been built, the walks outside are to be widened and the ends and sides closed up with glass and sliding doors, so that in winter those attending market will not freeze in the cold winds that blow across that space, and at all times disreputable characters will be kept out as the place will be closed except when market is held. They reason that 100 feet of oil from one bit, indicates that the body of oil is so large that the gas is as yet unable to force it up; their calculations make the well one of the monsters of the field, To-day will probably determine just what the well is. Up to the time the Gordon sand was struck the well had been following closely the copy set by the Thayer No. 2, which it will be remembered, was a boomer. It did not get oil well and the indications were not as good as are now had at the maiden effort of the Wheeling company.

The Shiris No. 2 did not get oil yester day until she had run her fourth bit in the Gordon sand, and then while the tools were being drawn she had five flows. Accidents and Incidents in West Virginia The Parnell Relief Fund Club of Parkersburg, has forwarded to Mr. Parnell $230 30. Mayor Chancellor is treasurer of the club, which has been in existence it, saying this was only a scheme of its company's to shut out other railroads. The petition was finally referred to the Committee on Streets and Alleys. An ordinance to regulate the sale of intoxi-cating liquors was presented, but it was related. Misses Lily Jackson and Pauline Hocksday, two well known young ladies of Parkersburg, have started for Webster Springs, intending to drive overland from Clarksburg, a distance of 100 miles. Willis Wilson, the Bourbon Governor of this State, asked, it is reported, not for the best, but for the Democratic hotel. He was directed by Scott Jones, colored, to the hotel of Dohen & Co., the Hayden House, for which he was runner, and Wilson went there. The "Co." of this concern is Jones and his wife. Jones is a good staunch Republican. It is said that "Windy" was considerably chagrined when he found out the true complexion of the hostelry.

Jacob Nine, of Preston county, who eloped with his fifteen-year-old niece, Miss Jeffers, has been arrested togother with the girl. The warrants were sworn out by the injured wife, and placed in the hands of officers who traced the gulity pair to a hut in a deserted part of Harrison county, Nine having paid $500 for the property, on which he was intending to build. They were each fined $20 and costs, the bill for the two amounting to $83, which Nine paid. The girl broke down when her father appeared on the scene and so did Nine, who is an arrant coward. He was so limp that he could not stand up when Mr. Jeffers appeared, and he has not yet had the nerve to face
